4. Instead of conclusions

Competitiveness is achieved and maintained with the attraction and direct involvement of each employee, therefore everyone’s wages are subject to the performance indicators established in the management contract. In the economies in transition to competitiveness, in which UE 28 is to the US and Romania is to the EU 28, both elites and those who do not meet the indicators, must be sanctioned. There is, among employers (20-25%), the practice not to reduce wages accordingly to the performance indicators set, citing various financial engineering from the collective agreements or maintaining a relative stability of social dialogue and solidarity between employees and employers (Nica and Potcovaru, 2014) in the fight against the State.
