Indeed, when asked what they liked best about their workplace, employees at top-rated companies were about twice as likely to say they felt "genuinely appreciated" at their job and confident in the direction of the company as they were to talk about pay and benefits they earn for working there.

That's no surprise, said PeteFoley, head of the Employee research Group at human resources consulting firm mercer. It s not that pay cheeks don't matter. Obviously they do. But when it comes to creating enthusiastic, engaged employees, money alone cant buy you love.

"Pay and benefits have got to be at a minimum level, and then you're on to other things", Foley said. "You want to know you can develop, have a sense of accomplishment, feel like you're making a difference".

Many of the companies that took part in post-dispatch survey are relativelycollar. But the same concerns about development and dignity are seen across the ruum of business. When local fast-food workers launched a one-day strike last day, their complaints were as much about working condition and treatment by visors as they were about higher wages.

That is not surprising. Foley said. Surveys have long shown that the way people are treatedat work means at least as much as their compensation. Often more (آزمون تامین اجتماعی - ۱۳۹۳)
